Terms and Conditions:

Service Technician

Customer's signature of this work order constitutes acknowledgement and acceptance of the terms set out below. Charges are strictly for labour, service and parts supplied by Palantir. Palantir is not responsible for any software, files, programs, or data on any equipment received from Customer, including any damage or loss of same while said equipment is in Palantir's possession. In no case shall Palantir be responsible for any consequential damages, special damages, loss of use or economic loss experienced by Customer. Customer voluntarily assumes all risk of any such damages or loss. This includes loss due to Fire, Theft, or Accident while in Palantir's possession, or any other hazard. Palantir's liability will be for the replacement of lost, damaged or stolen hardware only. Data lost by any of the above is not the responsibility of Palantir. The only remedy Palantir will provide is to restore the customer's backup to new hardware. If no backup exists, that is the responsibility of the customer.

By requesting Palantir to carry out service, Customer represents and warrants that all software, files, programs and data on the equipment is Customer's property and has been acquired lawfully, that Customer acknowledges responsibility for all backups of software, files, programs or data on equipment delivered to Palantir for service, and that Customer has backed up the same.

Labour for repairs performed by Palantir is warranted for ninety days. Parts are warranted by the manufacturer. No terms different than those stated herein are part of the agreement between Customer and Palantir unless stated in writing on this work order and signed by both parties prior to delivery of equipment to Palantir for service.
